Higher education is starting to bear fruit. PSL's high entry position in the THE World University Rankings reflects one of the ambitions of France's programme of mergers, say John Ludden, Philippe Le Prestre and Jean-Marc Rapp. Earlier this month, a French university with an unfamiliar name, Paris Sciences et Lettres - PSL Research University Paris, entered the Times Higher Education World University Rankings at an eye-catching 72nd position, becoming France ...

Reaching the period exactly before the revolution, the idea of a general education started to develop in France. Since that, during the French revolution (1789-1799) The state of the country was not stable at all, most people would think that the education is the last thing French people would think about in such crises, but the truth was that the leaders of the revolution had the education in their priorities.
