Competition needs to exist along both the dimensions of cost and quality, which the authors define as value. Healthcare's fundamental value proposition thus revolves around cost-benefit analysis, with the emphasis equally on cost and benefit. For the authors, the implications are clear: "The only way to truly reform health care is to reform the nature of competition itself" (p. 4).

“The way to transform health care is to realign competition with value for patients. Value in health care is the health outcome per dollar of cost expended. If all system participants have to compete on value, value will improve dramatically.” — Michael E. Porter, Redefining Health Care: Creating Value-Based Competition on Results
