Nokia's history goes

Women Writers of the American West, 1833–1927 recovers the names and works of hundreds of women who wrote about the American West during the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, some of them long forgotten and others better known novelists, poets, memoirists, and historians such as Willa Cather and Mary Austin Holley. Nina Baym mined literary and cultural histories, anthologies,

scholarly essays,
catalogs,
advertisements, and
online resources to debunk critical
assumptions that women did not
publish about the West as much as they did about other regions. Elucidating a substantial body of nearly 650 books of

all kinds by more than 300 writers, Baym
reveals how the authors showed
women making lives
for themselves in the West, how they represented the
diverse region, and
how they represented
themselves. Baym
accounts for a wide range of genres and geographies, affirming that the literature of the West was always more than cowboy tales and dime novels. Nor did the West consist of a single landscape, as women living in the expanses of Texas saw a different world from that seen by women in gold rush California. Although many women writers of the American West accepted domestic agendas crucial to the development of families, farms, and businesses, they also found ways to be forceful agents of

change, whether by taking on political
positions, deriding
male arrogance, or,
as their voluminous
published works

show, speaking out
when they were expected to be silent.

Looks at the art of
chess calculation,
describing when a
player should calculate, how to discover moves, and
how much time to spend on critical
moves.
